SCENARIO

The year 2142, Conrad Hart, agent with the Galaxia Bureau of Investigation was in great danger. "Got to keep one step ahead of them, if I don't I'm hamburger!"

Hugging the shop fronts, collar turned up, he was making his way back to his apartment.

"I must try and contact Sonya, wherever she is, and get to headquarters, it's the only safe place."

While field testing his latest piece of equipment, the Molecular Density Analyser, Conrad and his girlfriend Sonya made a startling discovery. Certain individuals had a molecular density so high, the only conclusion could be that they weren't human! Since then, Sonya had mysteriously disappeared, leaving him as the only one who could warn the authorities.

"They'd better believe me... Still, if they don't, the visual record of my discovery can be extracted from my cloned memory patterns within this holocube I'm carrying. They've got to believe that!"

Reaching his apartment block, movement from the top of the building opposite caught his eye. As he turned around to get a better look, a pulse of laser light caught him square in the centre of his back, sending him sprawling across the sidewalk. Almost immediately, the silence was broken by a whining roar. A sleek shuttle hovered over head. Its landing thrusters blew clouds of water vapour and trash into the air all around as it sat down beside him. Two dark suited figures got out and with their eyes scanning the surrounding buildings, quickly approached an unconscious Conrad.

"Get him into the shuttle fast!" rasped one of his captors, "I'll contact Central Command."

He brought a walkie talkie up to his mouth.

"Number Seven here. Subject acquired, we're bringing him in."

Semi-conscious and totally paralysed, the only thing Conrad could do was listen to the voices of his kidnappers coming from the front of the shuttle.

"I don't see why they bother with all that memory erasure business." Came a voice. " Why don't they just have us kill him and be done with it?"

After a short pause another voice responded.

"Insurance...We'll place one of our agents in his job with orders to gather as much information as possible. If for any reason, the operative is threatened with discovery, we can extract him and send this one back minus his memory. Everyone will think he's gone ga- ga...leaving us undiscovered."

"Ah...I see, but where..."

Suddenly a third voice blasted over their conversation.

"SHUTTLE HQ782, THIS IS TITAN FLIGHT CONTROL, STAND BY TO RECEIVE RE-ENTRY COORDINATES."

"TITAN!!" The thought almost burst out of Conrad's skull. "I know I've been out for a while but not for that long!..."

Squirming, fighting against his bonds,he could feel what little strength he had left slowly slipping away.

"Got to remember to escape,escape, escape, escape, esca...."

The shock of his position was too much for Conrad, a wave of unconsciousness swept over him.

Light, Blinding light. Conrad staggered to his feet. Grazes and cuts on his wrists and ankles burned painfully.

"Can't remember..., where am I ..., who am I..., what's going on?".

Before Conrad realised what he was doing, he was running down a long corridor gun in hand.

"Got to getaway!" the thought kept repeating itself over and over in his head.

Alarms suddenly broke the silence.

"ATTENTION, ATTENTION... DANGEROUS PATIENT ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE... SECURE ALL EXITS... SECURITY TEAMS TO LEVEL 3..... ATTEN"

Conrad stopped dead in his tracks. Confused and scared, not knowing which way to turn he stood transfixed.

PTOOM!!

A laser blast striking the wall nearby shook him back to reality. Two guards were closing in on him.

"This is Security Team 2, Patient near entrance to main hangar area. Close Security Door, Level 3."

With no time to think, Conrad hurled himself through the closing doorway. Scrambling to his feet, he spotted a Hover Bike.

"Open the door! Open the door!" Both guards yelled into their intercoms, watching Conrad climb aboard the bike.

"Stand back!" Three blasts from one guard's laser gun and a shoulder charge from both of them shattered the door.

Conrad had already cleared the hangar by the time the guards had bought their guns to bear. A frustrated guard called in the news.

" The patient has escaped on a stolen Hover Bike, continuing to pursue in a shuttle."

Skipping the tree tops, the shuttle and the hover bike were locked in an aerobatic cat and mouse game. The more agile hover bike ducking and dodging laser blasts from the larger, but slightly faster, shuttle that was slowly closing in.

"5 more seconds and I've got him!" The determined guard muttered as he began to match Conrad's manoeuvres with the targeting cross-hair on his heads-up-display.

Two pulses narrowly missed but the third one hit its target. A plume of sparks and white hot gas exploded out of the back of the bike marking the end of Conrad's bid for freedom. Rocking violently the bike spiralled downward out of control. Conrad plunged through the jungle canopy and with the ground rushing up towards him, blacked out. The shuttle circled over the crash sight once. Satisfied that there was nothing left to salvage, the smug guards returned to their base. Unknown to them, Conrad was still alive lying in the undergrowth.

As the sound of the shuttle's engines died away into the distance, Conrad stirred. Moving his arm to try to get to his feet he knocked what looked to him like a small plastic box over a ledge. Standing up he walked over to the ledge and looked around. Vegetation covered everything, huge trees draped in vines, rocks and boulders overgrown with mosses and grass. He could clearly see the box about 10 metres below, a red light on the side of it blinking steadily. "Might as well go fetch it." Conrad thought. "I suppose it could contain something useful."

He thought he was safe now. However, we know different and it's up to you to make sure Conrad gets to know too...

BACKGROUND

Throughout the 20th century, an unprecedented political and economic crisis afflicted Earth, leading to the systematic disabling of its programme to conquer outer space through lack of funding. The highest priority now was to carry out research into new energy sources, preservation of the environment and maintenance of the cultural heritage. However, at the dawn of the 21st century, provision of considerable funds from an unknown source released by the politicians of the new, unified government, permitted a return to the space research programme.

The conquest began gradually with the construction of huge, manned artificial satellites. Several lunar bases were created with the view to becoming future earth colonies within the solar system. The considerable advancements made together with the supply of increasingly greater sums of money allowed man to explore, even as far as the planet Titan.

TITAN

Saturn is orbited by a large planet that is permanently obscured by the dense atmosphere surrounding it: Titan. This planet, between Mercury and Mars in diameter, is the only one, along with Earth, whose atmosphere is mainly made up of nitrogen. With its density of just 1.9, Titan's composition has to be half rock and half ice. Titan's atmosphere, almost 90% nitrogen, about 10% methane and traces of hydrocarbons, is very dense, and the sky is probably never visible from the ground. The average temperature is about -180 degrees.

Under such conditions, you can imagine Titan as being a world that is forever plunged into a kind of pale twilight, veiled by thick fog and lashed by methane rains. The dull, monotonous brownish landscapes are perhaps the most desolate in the entire solar system.

In order to exploit Titan, the inhabitants built gigantic domes the size of towns, beneath which life went on at two different levels. On the upper level, a large artificial jungle was created to supply oxygen.

Oxygen produced by this vegetation is conveyed to the heart of the city, situated on the lower level, via an extremely elaborate ventilation system. The underground city (N.W.) can be reached through shafts located in the jungle.

The capital of Titan, New-Washington, is a pleasant town where job prospects within the mines ensure a promising future to those willing to seize the opportunity. For this reason, a large number of Interstellar companies vigorously compete to offer numerous benefits to the future pioneers of the new colony, including Earth-Titan tickets at very reasonable prices, the chance of frequent trips back to Earth, all matters taken care of on arrival... in short, an ideal world!

UTOPIA BAR

"Cheers!" a word frequently on the lips of the thirsty clients frequenting the Utopia bar. What could be more natural, after all, we have come to one of Earth's best ambassadors, here on Titan.

Wine and beer, brought over in special ships, flow freely and conversation becomes quite lively, but always good-natured.

Open 24 hours a day. You will find a welcome warm enough to make you forget the worries of city life!

A LUCKY WINNER

The draw for "A contract for Titan" has just taken place in the Tokyo Skate-ball stadium, and Mr Firbank was awarded the prize of a work contract on Saturn's satellite planet.

"How do you feel, Mr Firbank, knowing that you have been chosen to leave for Titan?"

"I'm very happy at the thought of finding myself on this prestigious planet, and I want to thank once again, the Interstellar Mining Company, as well as the Interplanetary Travel Company."

"Do you know what to expect over there, or up there, if you like?"

"Yes, I have a vague idea from the information I was able to gather before taking part in the contest, but I prefer not to know everything so as to get a surprise once I arrive on Titan."

"Well, Mr Firbank, allow me to present you with your Earth to Titan ticket together with the programme of activities which are available in New-Washington. Mr Firbank, congratulations once again, have a good trip, and good luck."

"Thank you, thank you, see you soon."

Don't worry, we haven't forgotten you. One of our most able members of staff will come to take you out of the pleasant reality of your comfortable surroundings.

Because, and don't ever forget this, you are on New Washington in order to work. So you will be accompanied to your future work place, where all career opportunities are open to you.

It's all up to you now!

OPENING OF THE SPACEPORT:

The opening ceremony of the new SPACEPORT took place yesterday, on 2 April, in an atmosphere that was both dignified and good natured.

Monsieur Antoine Lubeche said on this occasion: "It's a great day for our city and for that matter for the future of Titan, which will now be able to maintain cordial and permanent commercial relations with the planets in our solar system".

Accompanied by First Governor Dunfee and all the directors, the President of C.O. used a laser to cut the three-dimensional cord of the single landing strip, allowing the space shuttle to make its first orbital flight.

PHYSICIST HONOURED

At the invitation of the Governor of our City, EDWARD VAN RIZOTTO, the renowned Earth scientist, arrived this morning. A large security operation was mounted for the occasion. The inspired inventor of transitional scanning teletravel, whose efforts, despite some unfortunate destination errors, permitted the transport of prisoners to the moon without the use of space shuttles, was received with all the honour due his rank. After a brilliant rendering of the "Patriot's anthem", the visit was followed by the opening of a museum dedicated to the first settlers to arrive on Titan. The scientist will be staying at the Governor's palace during his brief one week stay with us, before returning to Earth where top secret projects await him.

The Robo-cops patrol

BLOODY RIOTS IN NEW WASHINGTON:

Several dozen mutants from the forbidden zone rebelled on Wednesday 29th March, following an overdose of sap from the artificial jungle on the upper level. Initially indulging in limited actions of vandalism (breaking windows, setting fire to autospaces, and generally causing havoc), the revolt degenerated into attacks on the population in the surrounding districts. A special commando group, led by the ex-space mission leader, Arthur MacFly, was set up. Their mission, to eliminate the overflow of mutants by any available means.

The City's security services continue to recruit in order to deal with any similar future occurrences.

For more information, contact the security department in your area, or ring on holophone number EUR-103H.

The Narcofighters brigade was put in control of the investigation into sap trafficking out of the upper level. To be continued.

MINING DISASTER

The final death toll in the mining disaster in the Western zone stands at three. On 30th March last, at about 2100 hours, the fifth level of mine B7 collapsed in a single block on top of the workers, even though they were equipped with protective equipment. According to survivors, the majority of the victims' shields had not worked. "This accident was caused by defective material, not human error" the supervisor of MB7 stated. In order to avoid another accident of this type the mine has temporarily shut down, to allow a complete review of its protective shields and to rearrange the mine's fifth level. The investigation continues.

WORK BRINGS FREEDOM

In the beginning, this phenomenon worried hardly anyone. But the evidence is there; recruitment to high risk jobs has fallen markedly over the last few months. Many areas of work are affected by this crisis, such as station engineers, dome scrapers, bounty hunters, body guards, messengers, mutant killers...

With a view to revitalising the job market, recruitment personnel are now offering candidates absolutely unbeatable salaries.

If you like dicing with death, are in good shape physically and money is your driving force, there's a job for you! Get in touch immediately with the Special Unit for High Risk jobs (SUHRJ) on AFR-598.

ECONOMY

During the months of March and April, sap production from the artificial jungle fell by 10%. No cause for alarm was recorded. Morale continues to be high amongst the workers in the upper level.

MEDICAL COLUMN:

A team of multi-planetary researchers, led by Doctor Sybille Birmok, published a paper in the latest issue of "Arti-jungle", the Titan weekly, dealing with the appearance of a new and fearful illness which could be the disease of our time: Craniaflab.

The first symptoms of this illness, which affects people of all ages, are physical (loss of nails, softening of the skull, loss of teeth) and psychological (acute paranoia, sudden loss of memory or a tendency towards murderous hysteria). More than fifty people showing symptoms of the disease have been hospitalised in the intensive care unit at the Multimедical Centre (Asia district). It should be noted that some of them, mostly natives of the American district, have now been undergoing treatment there for over eight months, with no visible sign of improvement.

Following long and costly research, a chemical compound has been isolated, mainly based on mercuriolate of iodised tetraxyne, which seems to show evidence of having a real effect against this disease. This substance, an extract from a recently discovered carnivorous plant (orchis aciarium), is not easy to obtain, since this plant only grows in the farthest reaches of the artificial jungle.

Groups are now being trained, specialising in the research and gathering of these half-vegetable, half-metal specimens upon which scientists are pinning so much hope.

UTOPIA AGAIN!

A minor dispute occurred in Utopia yesterday evening at about 11 pm (Titan time). Two miners attacked a barman who refused to serve them, as they were already drunk. The security services of the famous establishment had no difficulty in restraining the two hotheads, ejecting one and warning the other. Everything returned to normal after this, and the evening ended happily.

Warm atmosphere in Utopia

ENVIRONMENT:

During a school visit to the artificial jungle two new animal species have been discovered. At the same time a strange new plant, unknown up to that point was also found. A group of researchers has been assigned to the study of these interesting phenomena.

These half-organic, half-metallic creatures live in the same macrocosm. Their complex make up allows them to adapt perfectly to the harsh surroundings of the artificial jungle.

There is nonetheless, cause for concern, if the words of Professor Marcouze are to be believed: "In fact, if we humans have created this artificial jungle in order to produce the oxygen we need to survive, it is not impossible that species have been created by this same jungle. All the same, let us hope that these organo-metallic lifeforms do not harm the overall balance of the artificial vegetation".

FOREIGN NEWS (EPA)

According to the Earth Press Agency, the lunar penitentiary has recorded a rise in violence over the past few days. It began when certain detainees refused to return to their sterile bubble, saying that there was a lack of protozamine in the freeze-dried food. Negotiations were aborted, leading to widespread rebellion. The taking of several luno-maton hostages led to a swift reaction by the security forces. The final toll stands at twenty-five dead, five injured, one, a guard seriously, and many moved to the high security district.

The unified government ordered that a detailed enquiry be carried out to determine the exact causes of the uprising.

RUNNING FROM HARD DISK

From the CLI prompt, type the following:

CD DH0:FLASHBACK
ENDRUN FLASHBACK

In a few seconds the program will start running automatically.

MEMORY DIFFICULTIES

Flashback will only run on machines with at least 1 Mb of memory.

Certain systems (Amiga 600 for example) have operating systems that take up a lot of memory, leaving little room for any program.

If you come across this problem, disconnect any peripherals: external drive, printer, hard disk, etc.

AMIGA 600/1200 owners should press both mouse buttons simultaneously at start up, to recover memory. From the menu displayed, select 'Advanced Options...', then deactivate all peripherals, except drive DF0:, by clicking on the buttons marked 'ENABLED'.

- If the game will not start:
the memory may be fragmented: Switch off and restart the game.

Conrad is armed with a shield with four resistance layers at the start of the game. Each time he is hit, his shield loses a layer, if Conrad is hit and there are no remaining protective layers left, the blow will be fatal.
